BY STERLING F. GREEN
Washington, Aug. 20 (AP)—The government today pulled a brake on free-wheeling credit.

New rules to stiffen "easy payment" loans and purchases covering most consumer goods costing from $50 to $5,000, were posted officially by the Federal Reserve Board. They take effect Sept. 20.

Most consumers shuddered when they'll go along if it will help fight inflation. Businessmen were divided. Some thought it "fair and reasonable." One furniture executive

Sardines Disappear Along West Coast

Next Dark Of Moon May Tell The Story

BY HARRISON HUMPHRIES
Washington, Aug. 20 (AP)—The familiar sardine is not as familiar as it used to be.

Its disappearance off the northern California coast already has changed the habits of the fishermen, and may change the eating habits of the nation.

The next "dark of the moon" may tell the story.

The pilchard (sardine) season already has opened in the North Pacific coast area. In those waters, the tiny fish once were abundant. But last year the catch was so small that fishermen turned to other areas and other fish to make a living.

Biologists of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, in cooperation with the state of California, are studying the problem. But they say it may take years of statistical research and samplings of the catch to discover the reason for the disappearance.

Experts said the early catch this month is inconclusive. But when the boats go out again at the next dark of the moon it should become known whether the pilchards intend to return in great numbers to the waters off San Francisco and Monterey.

Alger County Board Opens Year-Around Bear Killing Season

Lansing, Aug. 20 (AP)—The Alger county board of supervisors today notified the state conservation department that it was authorizing a year-around open season on bear hunting in the county.

The move was seen as a result of the recent killing of a small child by a bear in Chippewa county.

Each county board of supervisors may make the decision on whether or not to allow open bear hunting. In the Northern Michigan bear country, 40 out of 47 counties protect the animals.

A bear that creates damage or kills livestock may be shot any time during the season. There also is an automatic open season on bear during the deer hunting season.

RESORTS CURB PRICES

Labor Law To Be Issue In Campaign

Demand For Changes Put Up To GOP Leaders

BY JACK BELL
Washington, Aug. 20 (AP)—New Democratic demands for repeal of the Taft-Hartley act brought speculation today that Republicans may propose some changes in the labor law.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, the GOP presidential nominee, has not ruled out such a course.

But he and Republican campaign planners evidently must decide first whether any such proposals can be made appealing to organized labor without alienating other citizens who want the act kept pretty much as it is.

Dewey's Taft-Hartley comments have been few recently. But he said in Salt Lake City in May that he never had seen a "perfect law."

"I hope that my party will be more ready to make corrections than the Democratic party has been," he added.

Later the Republican platform pledged "continuing study to improve labor-management legislation in the light of experience and changing conditions."

Not Tied Down

Thus Dewey goes into the active phase of the campaign next month with the way open for him to propose possible changes in the law without being tied down in advance to any specific revisions. There seems little doubt but that he will defend the general principles of the act.

Democratic National Chairman J. Howard McGrath forecast such a stand in a statement last night commenting on the visit of House Speaker Joseph W. Martin, Jr., to Dewey in Albany.

McGrath said Martin's assertion that the Republicans will brag about the record of the GOP-controlled 80th Congress hangs an "Albatross" around Dewey's neck.

Dewey, previously, McGrath said, "appeared to be running for the presidency under the pretense that the Congress during the past two years had been controlled by hotshots or gremlins, rather than by Republicans."

But now, the Democratic chairman added, it seems that Dewey "will soon abandon his attitude of being too noble to concern himself with such mundane problems as high prices and housing and run as a Republican can record."

Young Wife Learns Husband Is Woman

Oakland, Calif., Girl, 17, Fooled For 2 Years

Oakland, Calif., Aug. 20 (AP)—Robert Lawson Nelson, 17, says he never knew—until police told her yesterday—that the "husband" with whom she had lived for two years was a woman.

Police inspector Laurence Kovill said Roberta was upset to the point of hysteria by the news. The "husband" Robert Stewart Nelson, 25, has been missing since Monday and is charged with theft of $910 from a grocery supply firm where he—or she—was bookkeeper.

"He was just like a normal husband," police said Roberta told them. Inspector Kovill said she added, however, that they did not have marital relations because Robert was "emotionally involved" with an earlier wife.

Robert "always wore tape over his chest," Roberta also told Kovill; "He told me he had been in the navy and had been wounded by shrapnel."

Kovill said FBI reports showed Nelson had been picked up in Chicago and St. Louis in 1944 for failure to carry a draft card and that each time was released when the prisoner's true sex was disclosed.

Roberta said they met as fellow workers in a Phoenix laundry and were married at the home of the Rev. C. D. Smith there Oct. 6, 1946.

Routine Kiss Costs Friendly Boss $50 In Detroit Court

Detroit, Aug. 20 (AP)—When 17-year-old Julie Parrish's boss kissed her, she punched him, quit her job as secretary and brought suit for assault.

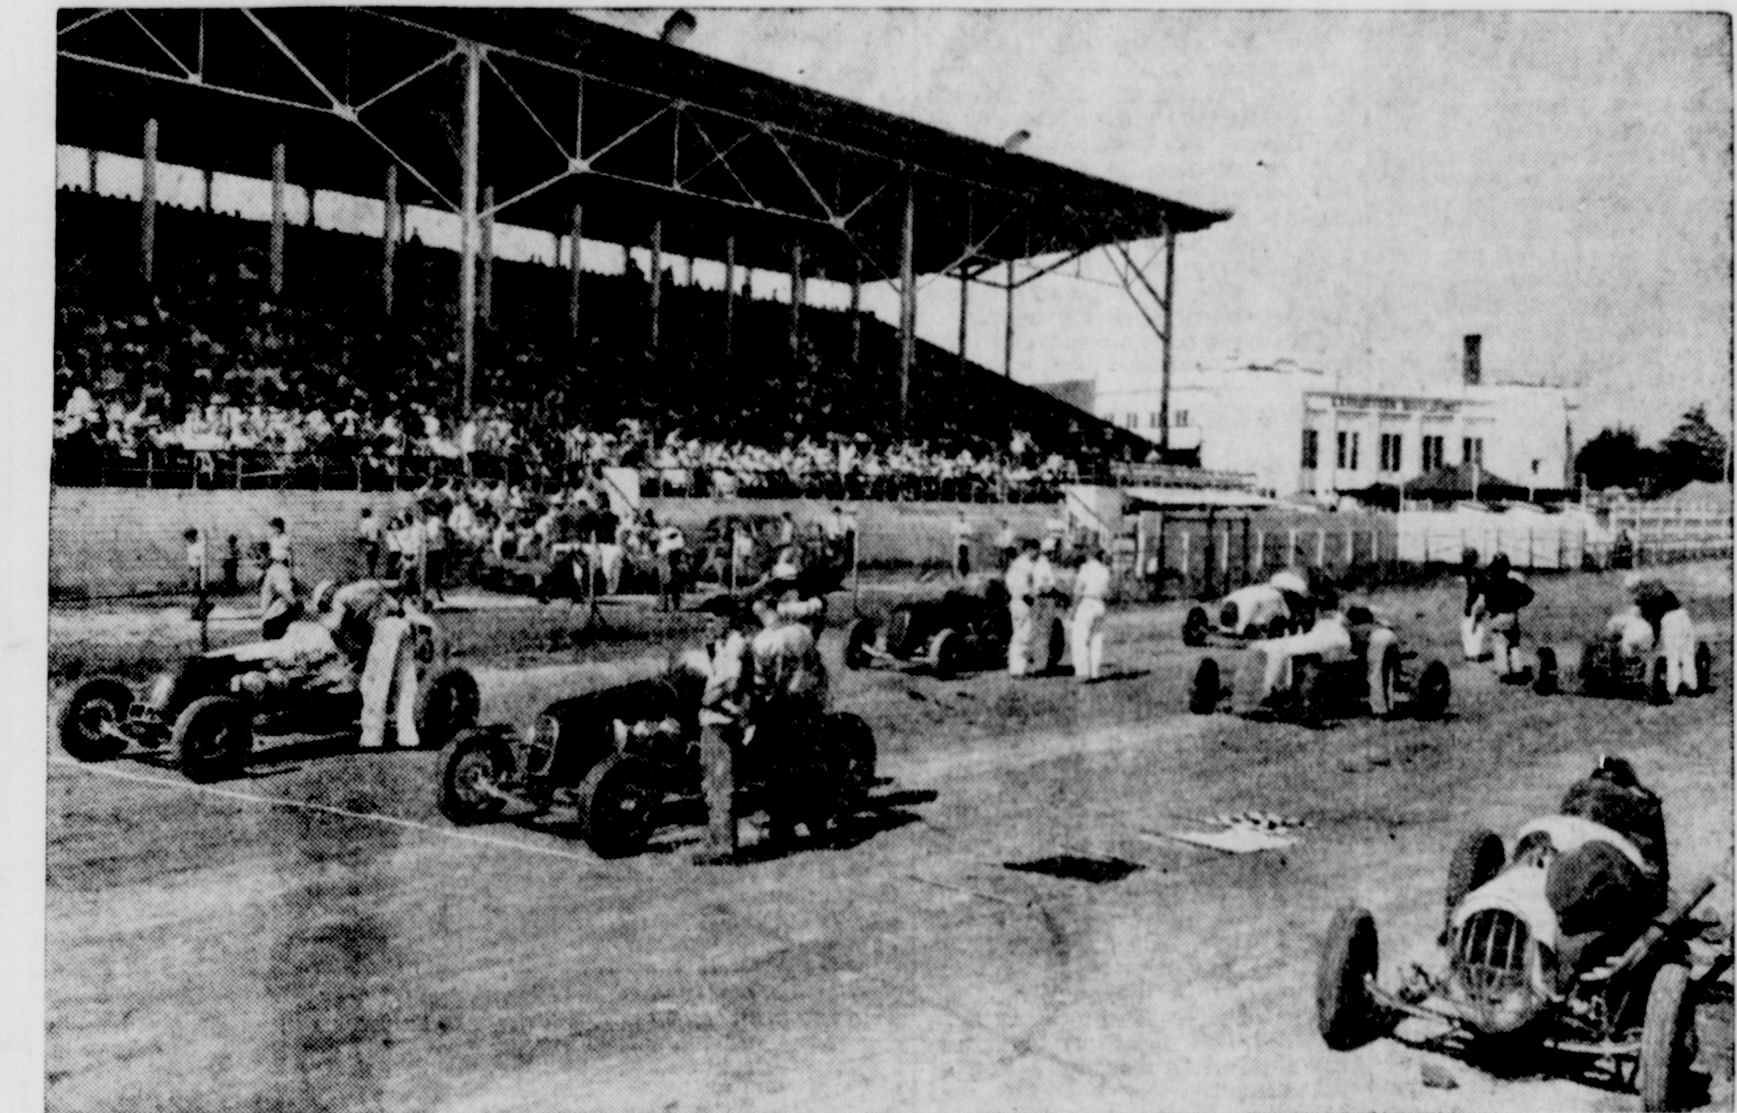

The blue-eyed Miss Parrish told Recorder's Judge O. Z. Ide that her employer, 58-year-old Tony Texakes, a restaurant supply man, kissed her "violently" after sending her to a file room in the rear of his office.

Counsel for Texakes said it was a "friendly kiss" and contended that such behavior was "just regular business routine."

Judge Ide found Texakes guilty of assault and fined him $50. His attorney said Texakes would appeal.

Lives Of 38 Saved By Skill Of Pilot

Crippled Airliner Landed At Chicago Field

Chicago, Aug. 20 (AP)—Thirty-eight persons owed their lives today to the skill of a pilot in landing a crippled airliner.

They were aboard an American Airlines ship which, as it prepared to land at Chicago's Municipal airport at the end of its flight from Cincinnati, was unable to lower its nose wheel. An emergency landing was made at the Glenview Naval Air station 30 miles away.

As they came into the Municipal field, Capt. Edward T. Cycon, 33, and his co-pilot, Ervin Boldt, both of Chicago, attempted to lower the wheel. Their efforts were futile, and they circled the field for more than an hour before going to the Navy field to land.

With less than an hour's supply of gasoline, Cycon brought the plane in tail-heavy. The two main wheels touched the concrete. Sparks showered as the plane scraped forward, finally nosing over at the end of its landing.

All passengers left the plane safely. There was no fire, although a large force of Navy firefighters stood by. The ship was a two-engine Convair.

United States Demands Recall Of Soviet Consul

(By The Associated Press)

The United States demanded in a worded note today that recall Consul General Jacob I. Lomakin because of his conduct in the refugee teacher case in New York.

Russian assertions that the three teachers, Mrs. Oksana H. Kosenkina and Mr. and Mrs. Mikhail I. Samarin, were kidnapped with connivance of American officials were rejected. The note said the teachers declared their desire voluntarily to remain in this country and that Mrs. Kosenkina "jumped from the window of the Consulate General in order to avoid having to return to the Soviet Union." She suffered critical injuries.

All Russian charges were denied "categorically." The note said: "The United States government considers that Consul General Lomakin's conduct constitutes an abuse of the prerogatives of his position and a gross violation of the internationally accepted standards governing the conduct of foreign officials.

"The Department of State is, therefore, requesting the president to revoke the exequatur (credentials) issued to Consul General Lomakin, and it is requested that he leave the United States within a reasonable length of time."

Western diplomats are expected to talk with Foreign Minister Molotov in the Kremlin for the seventh time today in an effort to end the Berlin blockade and smooth out other West-East differences.

The talks may be the last in the series before a final showdown with Prime Minister Stalin, with whom the envoys last talked Aug. 2.

Pravda of Moscow revived the old case centering around Lt. Robert Dreher, a naval aide who left the U. S. Embassy in Moscow May 1.

The Communist newspaper said the U. S. Department Press Officer, Michael McDermott, gave a version of the incident "in complete contradiction of the facts." Russia asserted Dreher was hustled from the Soviet Union by demand after being caught receiving secret data. McDermott said Russian authorities framed the espionage charge by planting the evidence after Dreher already had asked for a visa.

As today's business session got underway, Robert G. Mathieson of Detroit was unopposed in his candidacy for the post of department commander.

Legion officials said this was the first time in 20 years that a candidate for the top post faced no contest as the convention opened. Nomination and election of officers is scheduled for Sunday, the final day of the meeting.

Chinese Banks Set For New Gold Yuan

BY ROY ESSOYAN
Shanghai, Aug. 20 (AP)—The banks of China closed today to get ready for a new "gold yuan" which will replace the virtually worthless Chinese paper yuan.

Nanking announced plans for the new currency yesterday, saying it would be "backed by a 100 percent reserve" and would be worth 4 to $1 U. S. at the official exchange rate. Other foreign currency exchange rates will be announced later.

The going black market rate for the fantastically inflated old currency is 12,000,000 to $1. Chinese were given until Nov. 20 to exchange their old yuan currency for the new at 3,000,000 to one.

There was almost universal skepticism in Shanghai, the financial heart of China, about the new "Sun" currency, as it is called.

Commodity traders showed a lack of confidence in it. Commodity prices this morning were 20 per cent higher than yesterday.

The head of one U. S. bank in Shanghai told a reporter the step was taken by the government "against sound advice" and was no solution.

Ellis Ezra, prominent local financier, declared: "The change from one piece of paper to another will not make any difference."

State Legion Gives Citation To Sigler

Governor Praised For Service To Veterans

Grand Rapids, Mich., Aug. 20 (AP)—The State American Legion today presented its distinguished service citation to Governor Kim Sigler for "distinguished service to the veterans of Michigan."

The governor was the principal speaker at the opening public session of the state convention here today.

The citation said the certificate of award was in recognition of Sigler's calling a special session of the legislature last September so that veterans' organizations could receive their appropriations from the state.

In presenting the award to the governor, the Legion said "the securing of these funds enabled the veterans' organizations to carry on their programs for disabled ex-servicemen, widows of veterans and veterans' children, without which serious hardship would have been experienced by the groups affected."

As today's business session got underway, Robert G. Mathieson of Detroit was unopposed in his candidacy for the post of department commander.

Legion officials said this was the first time in 20 years that a candidate for the top post faced no contest as the convention opened. Nomination and election of officers is scheduled for Sunday, the final day of the meeting.

WALTER RICHER DIES SUDDENLY

Funeral Services Will Be Held Monday

Walter Clayton Richer, 55, of 209 South 12th street, well known retired Escanaba businessman and prominent in church and fraternal organizations, died unexpectedly this morning at 2:30 o'clock at St. Francis hospital.

He had been ill, suffering from a heart ailment a year ago, but had recovered and apparently was in good health. He had been assisting as a ticket taker at the Upper Peninsula State Fair. Shortly after finishing his duties last night was stricken with a heart attack, and died two hours later.

Mr. Richer was born in Escanaba September 25, 1892. He attended the University of Illinois after his graduation from Escanaba high school and Cloverland Commercial college. He farmed at Flat Rock for 8 years and was manager of the A & P store here for 7 years. Later he purchased the Richer Bottling Works, which he operated until his retirement in June of 1944.

He was a devout member of St. Ann's parish and a trustee of the church. He was a member of the 3d and 4th Degree Knights of Columbus, a deputy grand knight of the former, and also was affiliated with the Holy Name society. He took an active part, as well, in affairs of the United Commercial Travelers.

He is survived by his wife and two children, Mrs. Earl Veldman, the former Marianne Richer, of Escanaba, and Ethel Mae, at home; one grandson, Walter C. Veldman; two brothers, William and Thomas of Escanaba; and a half brother, Thomas St. Jacques, of Escanaba.

The body will be in state at the Alto funeral home Saturday evening. Funeral services will be held Monday morning at nine o'clock with burial in Holy Cross cemetery. Third and Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus will meet at the funeral home Sunday evening for the rosary which will be recited at 8 o'clock.

Experts Mystified As Fires Continue On Illinois Farm

Macomb, Ill., Aug. 20 (AP)—A state fire official returned to the Charles Willey farm today to continue his investigation of a series of mysterious fires—and found there had been three more in his absence.

The latest fire destroyed the second barn while two others—in the chicken and milk house—were extinguished by the nearby farm couple. Previous blazes have destroyed their house and another barn.

The second barn fire was discovered late last evening too late to do anything to save the structure. The other two blazes started almost simultaneously. One was a box of old newspapers discovered by Willey himself. Mrs. Willey found newspapers on a cupboard shelf smoldering.

Meantime John Burgard, deputy state fire marshal, returned from Springfield where he had had samples of wallpaper tested. Fires which destroyed the Willey home started in the wallpaper and later in the walls.

Fred Wilson, Macomb fire chief, said "I'm completely mystified" over the new fires. He took samples of the newspapers to his office for analysis.

Results of the various analyses of insect spray, wallpaper, and other newspapers have not yet been made public.

Spalding And Stambaugh Youths In Hospital

Albert Gagne, 15, of Spalding, and his cousin, David Gagne, 13, of Stambaugh, were seriously injured at 8:40 p. m. yesterday when the motorcycle they were riding collided head-on with a car on US-241 one mile east of the M-69 junction.

Both are receiving treatment in St. Francis hospital where Albert is reported to have a fractured left leg and brain concussion, and David a concussion.

Sheriff's officers who investigated the accident said the motorcycle, owned and driven by Albert, was going west on the highway at the time of the accident.

A car driven by Carl Izzo of 900 South Carpenter avenue, Iron Mountain, was overtaking another car driven by Frank Beaudry of Ford River when the crash occurred. The Izzo car and the motorcycle struck almost head-on.

Witnesses of the accident in the Izzo and Beaudry cars said the motorcycle lights were not turned on, sheriff's officers reported.

Negro Boys Sorry About Reno Fire; 5 Dead, 137 Injured

Reno, Nev., Aug. 20 (AP)—Two "awful sorry" Negro boys were held by juvenile authorities today for starting a downtown fire Sunday which killed five persons and injured 137.

Police Chief L. R. Greeson said the nine-year-old boys told him they started a paper fire in the basement of a vacant building, then tried vainly to put it out as it spread to stored junk.

"I won't play with matches no more," one told him. Both were placed under juvenile court jurisdiction but are being housed temporarily in the county jail.

Fire Chief Earl Evans announced last night an investigation showed "an accumulation of gas, generated by burning materials" caused an explosion which killed the five victims. Spectators had crowded near the burning buildings when the blast flashed out, hurling debris among them.

The investigation was made by flight over water was accomplished in one hour and 18 minutes.

Dickinson 4-H Club Is Winner In Fair Parade

Climaxing activities of Upper Peninsula 4-H clubs at the U. P. State Fair yesterday was the annual 4-H Club parade, witnessed by more than 5,000 persons gathered for the afternoon program in front of the grandstand.

Dickinson county placed first in the parade and received a trophy which it will retain in permanent possession if won three successive years; Chippewa county placed second, and Menominee third and both received trophy awards. The judges reviewing the parade of 4-H clubs were Prof. Russell Horwood of Michigan State College and George McIntyre, assistant director of the Michigan department of agriculture.

Entered in the parade of clubs were Schoolcraft, Alger, Dickinson, Gogebic, Chippewa, Menominee, Baraga, Iron and Delta counties. It was the first time the Gogebic 4-H clubs were represented at the fair, and it was the first time that clubs from Baraga and Alger counties had entered animals in the 4-H dairy contests.

Yesterday afternoon marked the showmanship contests in the dairy 4-H class, with the young dairyman showing off their animals to the best advantage in front of the judges. At the exhibition building there were interviews for the 4-H girls who were competing in the achievement booth contest, and winners in this class were announced afterward by Ben Westrate, Marquette, assistant state club leader.

The achievement booth winners, who will receive as award an educational tour of the Middle West including stops in Milwaukee, Chicago and St. Paul were: Margaret Smith, Iron River; Donna LaFreniere, Norway;

Gloria Larson, Danforth; and Velma Izzard of Pickford in Chippewa county.

Four boys also were selected for their outstanding records in 4-H work to receive trip awards. They will go to the National Dairy Congress in Waterloo, Iowa, in October.

They are Cletus Wagner of Wallace in Menominee county, who received the award for his outstanding work in dairy project; and three boys whose all around activities in 4-H, together with their leadership ability, who are Richard Wagner of L'Anse, Gerald Olson of Wallace in Menominee county, and Lloyd Anderson of Iron River in Dickinson county.

Westrate also announced the winners in the county garden exhibits, one of the best sections in the 4-H club department this year. Blue ribbons were awarded Delta and Menominee county garden exhibits; and red ribbons went to Gogebic, Iron, Dickinson and Chippewa counties.

Dairy Honors Divided Among Four Counties Competition Is Keen

Menominee, Dickinson, Delta and Chippewa counties divided honors in the four classes of dairy cattle exhibited at the U. P. State Fair this year, with competition keener because of the larger number of better quality animals entered.

In the Jersey class Menominee county dairy farmers not only took the county herd award, as they did last year, but also won the sweepstakes, taking all of the awards in that class.

Dickinson county's Holstein dairy herd won top honors for the 18th straight year, and its Guernsey herd took second place for the third straight year.

Chippewa county's Brown Swiss, the only county herd in that class on display, took first place and most of the top honors for Brown Swiss.

The Guernsey class county herd award went to Delta county with stiff competition from three other counties. Twelve first places were won by Delta county owners of Guernseys in the individuals cattle competition, a good showing because of the number of entries in this class.

Following are the winners in the four dairy breed classes:

Escanaba (Est. Pop. 16,500)

THE 1948 POLK'S DIRECTORY, distributed to subscribers this week, gives Escanaba an estimated population of 16,500 as compared to the official 1940 U. S. census of 14,830.

This estimate quite likely is close to the actual figure. Perusal of the directory reveals the names of many new residents; a goodly number of them people who have come here to establish new businesses or work in new industries. It offers proof that the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce expansion program, launched toward the close of World War II to attract factories and commercial establishments, has played an important part in the community's growth.

But mere growth is not enough. A community is not good just because it is large, or growing rapidly. With population growth must come social and economic developments that will meet the needs and demands of the people.

For instance, not much good is achieved by bringing people to a community if they are to be forced to live in hovels or other inadequate housing. With increased population also comes the responsibility of expanding educational facilities and personnel. More parks, playgrounds and recreational activities also become a requisite.

So, a chamber of commerce, city council or any other agency which directs its efforts toward community expansion must take into consideration the needs for orderly, all-round growth. All of this requires careful, intelligent planning, even though some may abhor the word.

Increased industrial and commercial payrolls are highly desirable, but there are other things that count equally as much in community life.

More Gains For Labor

IT SHOULD BE REMEMBERED that when the Taft-Hartley law was passed, the CIO-PAC organization announced that it would fight to defeat every member of Congress who voted for it.

Since that time, 147 members who supported the act have come up for re-election, and 137 of them have won. And only one of the 10 who lost represented a major northern industrial district, where CIO-PAC supporters are supposed to be strong.

This certainly indicates that the rank and file of union labor, like the rank and file of the voters at large, doesn't servilely follow the orders of the big-shot union officers. And there is plenty of reason why it should not. The leaders denounced the Taft-Hartley Act as a slave labor law, which would make the most ruthless exploitation of the worker both possible and inevitable. Yet what has actually happened?

Some of the principal labor groups have made some of their greatest gains since the law was passed. Soft coal is a prime example. The new contract gives the miners an extremely liberal pension plan. It further increased pay—even though the miners received the highest wage of any comparable group before the new contract. The short working day remains in effect. Every benefit the miners had before the Taft-Hartley Act, was retained, and more are now enjoyed.

Workers in steel, automobile and other big industries have also won new gains. To say that the Taft-Hartley Act has in any way weakened labor is to deny the obvious truth.

Apparently the members of Congress who voted for the Taft-Hartley Act benefited labor, and the workers know it.

Results Of Inflation

THE IMPACT OF INFLATION upon the American people is reflected in the report of the federal reserve board released Wednesday night. The report revealed, among other things, that 28% of the American families are spending beyond their incomes and that savings which were 12% of income in 1946 were only 9% in 1947. The figures as of today may be even more disheartening as the inflationary cycle has continued since the survey was completed.

Fortunately the survey showed that most of the families that spent more than they earned in 1947 were not in adverse financial circumstances and did not have unbalanced budgets solely because of higher living costs. The majority of them simply bought automobiles or household appliances or made other large purchases on installment plans. This type of buying will be restricted under the terms of the new consumer credit order, which was scheduled for issuance yesterday.

The survey showed that 31,000,000 families, or 64% of all consumers, had accumulated 25 billion dollars in savings last year. The figures are somewhat misleading, however, unless it is also remembered that four-fifths of the savings were made by families with incomes in excess of $5,000. Savings of families earning less than that amount were not large.

The bright spot in the economic picture as revealed in the survey was that although the demand for consumer goods was terrific in 1947, production reached record proportions. Continuation of high production is obviously the only solid cure for the inflationary cycle in which we are caught.

How 'Idealists' Are Duped

MISS ELIZABETH T. BENTLEY met the press on the radio the other night. Four sharp-minded reporters questioned her, and some of her answers gave listeners a brief look into the workings of an American Communist's mind. It was an interesting, if somewhat bewildering, glimpse.

This confessed courier for a Soviet spy ring graduated from college in the depression year of 1930. She spent a year in Fascist Italy. Her life up to this time had been rather sheltered, she told the reporters. Then suddenly she found herself facing the rather sordid facts of life in a time of economic turmoil. This, plus her experience in Italy, led her through some "front" organizations to membership in the party.

After living under fascism, this American-born-and-reared woman permitted Communists to persuade her that the Italian and American governments were equally bad and, in fact, much the same. Today, she said, she thinks the United States has the best form of government in the world. But for more than a decade she apparently persisted in a contrary notion.

Miss Bentley admitted that she stuck with communism because she was idealistic. She probably would not deny that she was also gullible. For years she clung to the idea that her work against her own government was done not so much to aid Russia as it was to promote the communization of the United States by aiding the (then) only Communist government in the world.

Miss Bentley must have been one of the more intelligent and trustworthy native members of the CP, for she seems to have had some responsible assignments. Yet she admitted that it was several years before she suspected that any of her party superiors' actions were motivated by base desires.

Even when she finally met and worked with Russian agents it was some time before she decided that they were, as she put it, "cheap politicians." She had considered it a good Communist's duty to sacrifice time and money to the cause. Her final disillusionment came, she said, when Soviet agents forced her to accept a bribe of $2,000 from them or be considered a traitor.

It was not possible in a half hour of diversified talk for Miss Bentley to explain whether she was as disillusioned with communism itself as with its agents. But, by inference, she did sketch an outline of the lack of reasoning that must have duped many gullible young Americans into joining and staying in this alien and enemy party.

That is not to say that Miss Bentley's case is a model one. There must be a great variety of social, economic and emotional causes which lead Americans to renounce their country and their heritage and to close their minds to the insistent call of reason.

But perhaps Miss Bentley's story explains why a relatively few American Communists and their larger clique of fellow travelers can offer such a real threat to national security. They must surely be duped by dogma and hypnotized into accepting unreality before they can choose to become Communists. In such a state they are already the willing, unquestioning tools of foreign agents.

A BIGGER MICHIGAN

(Detroit Free Press)

The fact that Michigan's population has increased 813,000 since 1940 does not strike this newspaper as cause for elation.

A better Michigan is much more to be desired than a bigger Michigan. As it is, we can't modernize our state government because we can't get a new constitution. Our cities are still infested with vice and disease-breeding slums. Schools are inadequate. Crime is widespread.

As long as these conditions exist, adding to our population merely multiplies our problems. When Michigan can boast that it is a model place to live it will be time enough to gloat over an expanding population.

MIXED METAPHORS

(Scrapbook Item)

Q. I'm not sure that I know what a "mixed metaphor" is. Will you give us one of your common-sense explanations without the grammar book's double-talk?—C. B.

A. First let us define the figure of speech called metaphor: The metaphor consists of likening one thing to another, even though they are quite different.

Example: The ship plowed through the sea. (Here the ship is likened to a plow, although ships and plows are nothing whatever alike, and water and earth are not alike.)

Such figures as these are admirable metaphors: "Slings and arrows of outrageous fortune."—Hamlet. "Leave thy peacock wit behind."—Emerson.

The term mixed metaphor is an expression in which two or more metaphors are used producing a ridiculous association of ideas as in the classic example said to have been uttered by the statesman who thundered: "I smell a rat; a hear it brewing; I will nip him in the bud!"

Note the absurd mental pictures that result from these mixings:

The king put the ship of state on its feet. It was a burning question which threw cold water on the proceedings. His was a burning question which threw cold water on the World Events Analyzed

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

McCall, Idaho.—William James, America's great philosopher, wrote about the need of mankind to find a moral equivalent for war. He was speaking of the need to find, in time of peace, some great unifying force that would release all of man's energies for creative good as they are released in war for destruction.

Something approaching that is the United States Forest Service. If ever I have seen men dedicated to a cause, and faithful and efficient in that dedication, it is in the guardianship of the mountain heartlands of the West which under law rests on this service.

It is a service as decentralized as any government organization could be. Forest supervisors and rangers have a lot of independence and authority. They make the decisions on which the well-being of forest and river and valley depend.

SOME RED TAPE

Since it is part of a large bureaucracy, the department of agriculture, it has some of the blights of bureaucracy. The red tape, manifested in innumerable records, often seems excessive. Lumbermen and stock growers frequently accuse the service of arbitrary and dictatorial decisions.

But seeing the vast devastation that has been worked by fire and erosion and the narrow margin of security, I think I would incline to side with the service in any such argument. Without the water from the watersheds which are protected by the Forest Service, the livelihood of thousands upon thousands of families in the West would disappear. And that would be only the beginning of a chain of consequences fatal to the empire of the West.

From the high protected watersheds, the mountain streams run down into the rivers. The flood waters from melting snows in the spring are stored in reservoirs built by the Bureau of Reclamation. Then during the growing season this water is released to farmers in the valleys through an elaborate irrigation system.

IRRIGATION WORKS WONDERS

It works a magical transformation. Land that supported only sagebrush and sparse grass blooms with rich crops. While the hills are brown and desert-like, the valleys are green and fruitful.

This fruitfulness begins in the smallest rivulet high in the wilderness of the national forests. The precious water must be guarded and guided from the stream bed at eight thousand feet to the irrigation canal in the floor of the valley.

Fire is the most menacing enemy. The Forest Service is geared to fight it with modern weapons. Fire jumpers—the paratroopers of peace—are rigorously trained in the technique of parachuting out of planes to put out fires before they can spread.

By radio and telephone from a network of lookouts comes the warning of the first small blaze. It is plotted on the map, a dispatcher sends out a plane and soon the Forest Service paratroopers are dropping on the fire with equipment to fight it.

Supervisor John T. Mathews of the Payette National Forest, with headquarters in McCall, has a force of 60 smoke jumpers. For these 60 summerjobs he had 483 applications from young men prepared to undergo the stern training and then to drop from a swiftly moving plane in a remote part of the forest.

COOPERATION IN IDAHO

An almost equally menacing enemy is the destruction of soil caused when too many sheep and cattle graze in the mountain meadows. At this point politics of an explosive variety enters in.

Here in Idaho the Forest Service has had considerable cooperation from ranchers and stockmen. They did not join with livestock associations in Wyoming and Nevada in a move that seemed to have as its ultimate goal the removal of public forests from federal guardianship. The scarcely concealed objective was to turn these lands over to the states and thence, in all probability, to private ownership and exploitation.

But that move backfired. Farmers, sportsmen and conservationists were quick to see that it threatened everything they valued including the base of permanent development in the whole region. Frightened politicians, who had fallen in with the move, hastily tried to run to cover.

The men of the Forest Service—the full-time personnel is only about 2,500—are dedicated to the concept of a permanent growth of the forests or what remains of it. They are at war with the cut-and-get-out logger who leaves nothing behind; closes down his mill; throws men out of work; and leaves whole counties without tax revenue.

Petty congressional economies and inflationary prices have seriously hampered the work of the Forest Service. But the dedication of a devoted body of men is there to build on for America's future.

proceedings. His was a rocky road to travel, but he was determined to sink or swim. Even Shakespeare is known to have mixed an occasional metaphor, as in this line from the third act of Hamlet: "Or to take arms against a sea of troubles."

The metaphor has been called the boldest of all figures of speech. When properly used it is a valuable literary device which gives strength, color, and often brilliance to one's writings.

The inexperienced writer frequently allows his enthusiasm for metaphors to run away with his logic. Here is an actual excerpt from a "Letter to the Editor" column in a large daily newspaper. There are six metaphors in the mixture:

"There are men and women who are foolish enough to think a paradise (1) of existence may be had through selling our birthrights (2) to a lion in sheep's clothing (3). When the sickle falls (4), your neck would be on the chopping block (5), and all would be in slavery (6)."

SMARTEST HORSE—Most of us at one time or another have come to recognize and respect the intelligence of an animal. Perhaps it may be a dog whose actions show that he has exercised thought in solving some canine problem; a cat that accomplishes a particular feat only after deliberation; or—a horse whose daily work routine and contact with man has made it almost human in its intelligence.

"Old Rock was the smartest horse I ever knew," said J. Theodore "Ted" Ohlen, Delta county clerk.

Old Rock was a faithful and trustworthy employe of the old Buckeye lumber company at Gladstone back in the days when Ted was a lumber piler and had not yet become interested in election to public office.

OLD ROCK KNEW—To understand Old Rock and his work you should know something about the way lumber was piled in the yards of the big mills in the past, and in a few of them to this day.

The lumber comes out of the mill at a height of 15 to 20 feet above the ground, and from the saw it is piled on small cars that run on tracks on an elevated tramway. These cars, pulled by a single horse, carry the lumber along the tramway to the places where the lumber is to be piled for storage. When a pile is started on the ground the lumber is slid down from the tram to the pilers, and as the pile grows the lumber becomes easier to handle until finally it must be pushed up to the top of the pile above the tramway level.

It was Old Rock's job to pull the cars on the tramway.

He knew his work so thoroughly that even the greenest driver had no trouble with him—unless the driver displayed less intelligence than Old Rock.

FOOL DRIVERS—For about 15 years Old Rock pulled cars down the tramway, would halt at the switch where the tracks forked to permit the cars to go either to one side or the other of the tram for unloading.

"Old Rock would stop when he hauled the car up to the switch and would watch when it was thrown, just to see the driver did it right. Then he would go ahead," Ted recalls. "Once a fool driver threw the switch and tried to get Old Rock to go ahead. If he had he would have been on the outside of the load and would have been pushed off the tramway. When the driver started yelling Old Rock reared up, whirled around and went at him with his front feet. The horse knew more than the man."

GOOD DRIVERS—Even green hands had no trouble with Old Rock if they were calm and didn't yell or swear at him. He knew when to start, to stop, to turn. If a driver didn't know his job, Old Rock would teach him.

The veteran tram car horse hated those who swore at him or made fun of him. One driver teased Old Rock for many months, calling him names and then dashing around behind the load of lumber when the horse would turn and take after him. The last time the driver tried it was in the late fall when the tramway was covered with frost. "You're a lazy pup!" he yelled and then ducked aside and ran toward the rear of the load.

But the driver's foot slipped on the frosty planks and he fell in front of the charging horse. Old Rock reared and his great iron-shod front feet came down with a thud—one on each side of the frightened man. There Old Rock stood, head outstretched, his big teeth bared and not more than an inch from the driver's nose. Then the horse blew a snort of disgust and went back to work, never again to be called names by that driver.

HORSE PULLING—Another draft horse on the tram was George, younger if not bigger than Old Rock. The drivers would argue over which horse could pull the most, and Old Rock would toss his head impatiently and lay his mighty shoulders into the collar. One day in a test the drivers piled a car high with lumber, a mammoth load that George could not move. Then came Old Rock's turn.

"Getting down real low Old Rock's legs stiffened and his muscles rolled," said Ted. "The planks under his feet slid back under the rails as he leaned his weight ahead—and Old Rock pulled it!"

THE PASSING YEARS—For 15—or maybe it was 16 years, for Ted's not sure—Old Rock went faithfully and methodically through his long day's work. Winter and summer, the year around, the horse toiled cooperatively with the men who drove him, showing temper only when they proved foolish or stupid.

Then he became ill of prostate gland trouble and was operated on. He never did fully recover, and he died not long afterward. There was real mourning among the men who had come to appreciate him, for Old Rock was the smartest horse they had ever known.

Washington (P)—Let Maine rave about its potatoes. Let Iowa brag about its corn. Let Kansas holler about its wheat.

Here in Washington we're busy harvesting a bumper crop, too. The Washington Board of Trade estimates that 3,500,000 people come here each year to gawk at the sights. While gawking, they part with around $60,000,000.

The Board of Trade figures end here. But the Edison statistical service, whose unreliability has never been questioned, chips in with a few other morsels.

It estimates that most of these 3,500,000 visitors will have their pictures taken while standing in front of the U. S. Capitol.

All too many of these, judging from the specimens I've observed at work, will show the capitol dimly, but give a wonderful view of Aunt Bessie's store teeth, which almost fit.

It takes 45 buses, and hundreds of taxis taking part-time, to tote these tourists to the places they want to see.

Bob Atwood, who manages a bus line, says these are the goals of the average visitor, in the approximate order of their popularity:

1. The White House
 2. The Capitol
 3. The Smithsonian Institution
 4. The Bureau of Engraving.
- Outside the city
1. Mount Vernon
 2. Arlington
 3. Alexandria (All in Virginia.)

The high up Washington Monument also rates high up with the visitors, but it isn't on Atwood's list. That's because it takes so long to stand in line, waiting for an elevator, that most of his buses don't stop.

In addition to such things as the apothecary shop where Mrs. G. Washington used to order castor oil, by the quart, historical Alexandria has a new attraction. Tourists seem impressed when the speller spouts:

"And here is the home of John L. Lewis!"

Although a majority of the people want to see the White House most of all, they all can't make it. The place is open only two hours a day, five days a week. But 5,046 managed to squeeze in during the two hours of Aug. 10. The average is close to 4,000 a day.

Many tourists have strange ideas about our nation's capital. "Yes," said Atwood, whose company has been hauling them for 36 years. "Many of them, for example, think the president either lives or works at the Capitol."

Actually he's rarely there except to address joint sessions of Congress, although President Truman goes up to Capitol Hill occasionally to lunch with old Senate cronies.

Atwood says the misconception he likes to remember came several years ago when an old railroad chuffed into town.

He took one look at that large, marbledomed building and cried: "Great Scott, what a marvelous roundhouse!"

He seemed plumb put out when the bus driver told him that was no roundhouse—only the U. S. Capitol.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY ROBERT S. ALLEN

(Editor's Note—While Drew Pearson is on a brief vacation, the Washington Merry-Go-Round is being written by his old partner, Robert S. Allen.)

Washington.—The reported dispute between Averell Harriman, ambassador-at-large for the ECA, and Gen. Lucius Clay is nothing new for the latter.

He has rowed as hotly with the government agencies he has had to deal with as he has with the Russians.

The U. S. commander is a man of unquestioned ability. He is several cuts above the usual brass hat. But he has two serious defects. Clay cannot delegate authority and has to do everything himself; and he cannot work harmoniously with equals.

As he is intensely conscientious and drives himself unsparingly, the first deficiency results in his always being staggeringly overworked and in a state of near exhaustion. During his recent Washington visit, his eyes were bloodshot and his neck so stiff he couldn't turn his head.

Clay had been summoned back for consultations of the utmost importance on the explosive Berlin crisis. His doctors pleaded with him to rest a few days before flying the ocean. But he couldn't hear of it. In fact, he cut a night's sleep short in order to get off four hours ahead of schedule. As a result, he was half dead with pain and fatigue throughout his whirlwind stay in the capital.

This frazzled physical state inevitably leads to snap-judgment tiffs with other executives. This is particularly the case in backing up the judgments of his subordinates. With a few exceptions, Clay's staff is not notable for high caliber. But his first reaction is always to support them right off the bat, brusque and snappy. The frequent result is another clash with Washington.

Usually, Clay cools off and his underlying good sense reasserts itself. But it's second thought, and the task of reaching a workable understanding is encumbered by ruffled tempers.

(Note—A favorite saying of the late Gen. George Patton was, "More battles are lost by tired generals than by tired troops.")

PALES

There is one Washington executive, however, with whom Clay never bickers.

He is Undersecretary of the Army William H. Draper. The former Dillon, Read banker, once a subordinate of Clay, is now his immediate superior.

The reason for their harmony is that Draper never crosses Clay. Draper still "Yes, sirs" him. Although now second top man in the Army department, Draper's whole attitude is still that of a subordinate of Clay.

Their relationship is touchingly illustrated by the following:

Clay's office in Frankfort is a huge, baronial chamber in the one-time giant world headquarters of the notorious I. G. Farben cartel. The vast room has black marble pillars and, although Clay visits the office only about once a week, it is banked with fresh-cut flowers every day. On an imperial sized desk stands a large, shiny brass name plate reading, "General Lucius D. Clay."

It is a picture of Clay, with all his ribbons, and a very warm autograph to Draper.

LET ME AT 'EM

Gen. Toohy Spaatz, retired Air Force chief of staff and sharp Navy critic, was being urged by several service friends to return to harness. Spaatz couldn't see it.

"But, Toohy," pleaded one airman, "you are badly needed. You ought to stay in the government even as a civilian."

"Well, there is only one job that would interest me," was the soft admission. "I'd like to be secretary of the Navy for just about six months. That would be all I'd need."

HIDDEN RECORD

What People Are Thinking

By Elmo Roper

It is clear now that if the Democrats are to have any hopes of winning in November, they will have to find some way to seize the initiative in the Presidential campaign. The results of the latest "Fortune" survey—begun the week after the Democratic Convention—show that Harry Truman has a long, uphill fight ahead of him.

"Fortune" asked a cross-section of the voters who will go to the polls next November 2:

If the election were being held today, which candidate for President do you think you'd vote for: President Truman, Governor Dewey, Henry Wallace, or who?

	Total Voters
Truman	31.5
Dewey	46.3
Wallace	3.0
Thomas (volunteered)	2
Other Candidates (volunteered)	2.4
Express no opinion	15.6

Today's results place President Truman at the same low point which he has consistently maintained over the last three months. A comparison of the standings of the three principal candidates in surveys taken since April reveals that Dewey has been the steady front runner.

PRESIDENTIAL TRIAL HEATS	April	June	July	August
	1948	1948	1948	1948
Truman	32.1	33.7	28.2	31.5
Dewey	44.2	41.3	50.5	46.3
Wallace	6.1	6.3	4.0	3.0
Exp. no opinion	17.6	18.7	17.3	19.2*

*Includes 2.4 per cent who said they preferred some other candidate.

It is interesting to note that the current standings of Dewey and Truman are approximately what they were back in April, before the conventions and before the turbulent political activity of the months since then. The Dewey high in July was a reflection of the first wave of enthusiasms which any candidate normally receives after he is nominated. As was expected, after the Democratic convention, Dewey's total fell off slightly and Truman's popularity rose.

This latest "Fortune" Presidential survey also places Henry Wallace at a new low. But it should be pointed out that the survey was conducted before the Wallace convention had received its full share of publicity. It is probable that future polls will show Wallace somewhat stronger than three per cent.

This survey also does not reflect the full strength of the Dixiecrat candidate, Governor J. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina. Most of the 2.4 per cent who said they preferred a candidate other than Truman, Dewey, or Wallace are supporters of the Southern Democratic candidate, but his name was not on this ballot and his supporters had to volunteer it.

These latest post-convention figures paint in bold terms the course that the campaign is likely to take in these next three final months. The Republicans, well out in front, will probably attempt to do nothing which will antagonize any group of voters who now seem to be in the Dewey column. The burden of campaigning always rests with the underdog. In this case it is President Truman.

But the three months ahead can produce some surprises. It is still too early to count the President out of the race. In many respects, Governor Dewey's personal popularity is greater than that of his party. In order to maintain his lead, he will not only have to run against Truman, but he will have to run against the record of the Republican Congress and some of its notorious investigations, such as those conducted by Representative J. Parnell Thomas.

Truman's task will be to convince the voters that no matter what Dewey promises, the Harleys, Wolcotts and Wherrys will be the real leaders in the new Administration if the Republicans come to power. Truman must also seek to recapture Democratic strength in the large cities of the North. On his side of the ledger it must be pointed out that this latest survey shows that almost his entire increase in popularity has been in cities of over 100,000 population. While he is still behind Dewey in these cities, the full impact of the President's civil rights action has not yet been measured. And the people still have a "wait and see" attitude toward the record of the special session of Congress.

Governor Dewey has a commanding lead as the campaign enters its final months. But Truman has made remarkable comebacks in the past. It is clear, however, that the burden of proof now lies with the Democrats.

Police Move 1,500 Jap Movie Studio Strikers In Tokyo

Tokyo, (AP)—American soldiers and Japanese police Thursday moved 1,500 Communist-aided sitdown strikers peacefully from a movie studio they had held since March 31.

"We are leaving only temporarily," one strike leader said. Seven hundred armed Japanese police promptly occupied the studio, operated by the Toho company.

Four Sherman tanks, four armored cars, 50 armed soldiers and a small Observation plane were sent to the studio by the U. S. First Cavalry Division.

The cavalrymen's commander, Maj. Gen. William C. Chase, said: "My troops will back up Japanese police if necessary in enforcement of the law."

General Chase added that part of the mission of his troops was "to protect Americans, many of whom live in the neighborhood of the studio with their dependents." The Toho company announced last March 31 it was discharging 900 workers from its Kinuta studio as "Communist influenced." Of the 900, 270 refused to leave. The company last Sunday obtained a court order to eject them. It was this order which police mobilized to enforce.

Two Jeeps In One Parking Lane Are Puzzle For Police

Newark, N. J. (AP)—Giving out tickets isn't always so easy patrolman Hugh McAllister has discovered.

He found two jeeps parked in one metered parking space, both within the legal confines of the white lines, and the nicker parking fee inserted in the meter.

One of the two pint-sized vehicles was illegal, but which one McAllister pondered.

Finally, ticket pad in hand, he decided:

"It's illegal to put two vehicles in one place and the one farthest from the meter gets the ticket."

A MESSAGE TO OUR WATER CUSTOMERS

Effective August 1st, water charges will be made quarterly, as an economy measure. For this purpose the City has been divided into three sections, one section to be billed each month.

If you are in the first section you received your bill in August for one month's consumption. Bills for the second section will go out in September, for two months' consumption and service charges. The third section will receive theirs in October for three months' water use and service charges. Thereafter, all sections will receive their bills quarterly.

Your light and gas meters, however, will continue to be read and billed monthly.

Your attention is also called to the card which is left in your door if you are not at home when your meter reader calls. Your promptness in filling in and mailing this card will avoid the necessity of estimating your bill.

Factory-Made Houses Of Steel Get Boost

BY FRED J. ZUSY

Washington, (AP)—A major step forward in the building of factory-made houses awaits only approval by the attorney general. It involves setting aside 59,000 tons of steel for six months under a voluntary allocation plan already approved by the steel industry and Secretary of Commerce Sawyer.

This wouldn't build many houses, viewed in the light of tremendous overall needs. Estimates are it would provide materials for only 8,000 or so dwellings.

But those backing the infant industry, blocked up to now by inability to get steel supplies, say the plan would let it show how it can make "better houses at lower prices."

Tighe E. Woods, housing expediter, says the all-steel factory-made house is "the first real attempt" at cracking the housing shortage.

A few have been turned out and put in use, but not enough to make any dent in the demand for homes.

Lustron Corp. of Columbus, Ohio, has the biggest plant, with a capacity of more than 150 assembly-line homes a day.

But Lustron, like other producers—and there aren't many—has no previous customer tieup with the steel industry. It has found it very difficult to buy the metal.

Once the attorney general's office says the agreement doesn't violate any anti-trust laws, the 59,000 tons may be made available to Lustron and the others. Lustron is expected to get the biggest slice, although definite allocations have not been made. Five other concerns will share.

A commerce department spokesman says that once the attorney general acts "we'll move quickly." Sawyer said previously that first amounts will be small so as not to cause a sudden impact on the steel industry.

Sawyer said last week that he recognizes there is a shortage of steel but that the program will determine whether these factory-made houses can answer the demand for low-cost homes.

The cost to the man who wants to live in it is estimated at about $8,000, without the lot. Reliance Homes, Inc., of Lester, Pa., says its homes, with three bedrooms, living room, dinette and kitchen, fully equipped with everything but a refrigerator, sell to the builder for $6,000. This includes cost of delivery to the site and putting it up.

The Reliance home comes in seven completely shop-assembled sections, with plumbing, heating and electrical systems installed.

The firm says six men can put it together in four hours.

Senator Flanders (R-Vt.) and Rep. Sundstrom (R-NJ), members of a joint congressional committee on housing, say their committee has concluded that mass production of houses is one of the basic solutions to the shortage.

Sundstrom says it takes only 500 man-hours to manufacture and put up a factory-made steel house against 1,500 to 2,000 for work at the site alone on a conventional dwelling.

Lightning Usually Does Little Harm To Flying Planes
Washington, (SS)—A stroke of lightning which hits an airplane flying through a thunderstorm usually does little physical damage to the plane itself but is rated as one of the greatest psychological hazards to the pilot.

The brilliant flash of the discharge, the smell of pungent ozone, the accompanying noise and concussion may frighten even the most experienced pilot, Maj. Gen. H. M. McClellan, U.S. Air Force Commanding General of the Airways and Air Communications Services, declared.

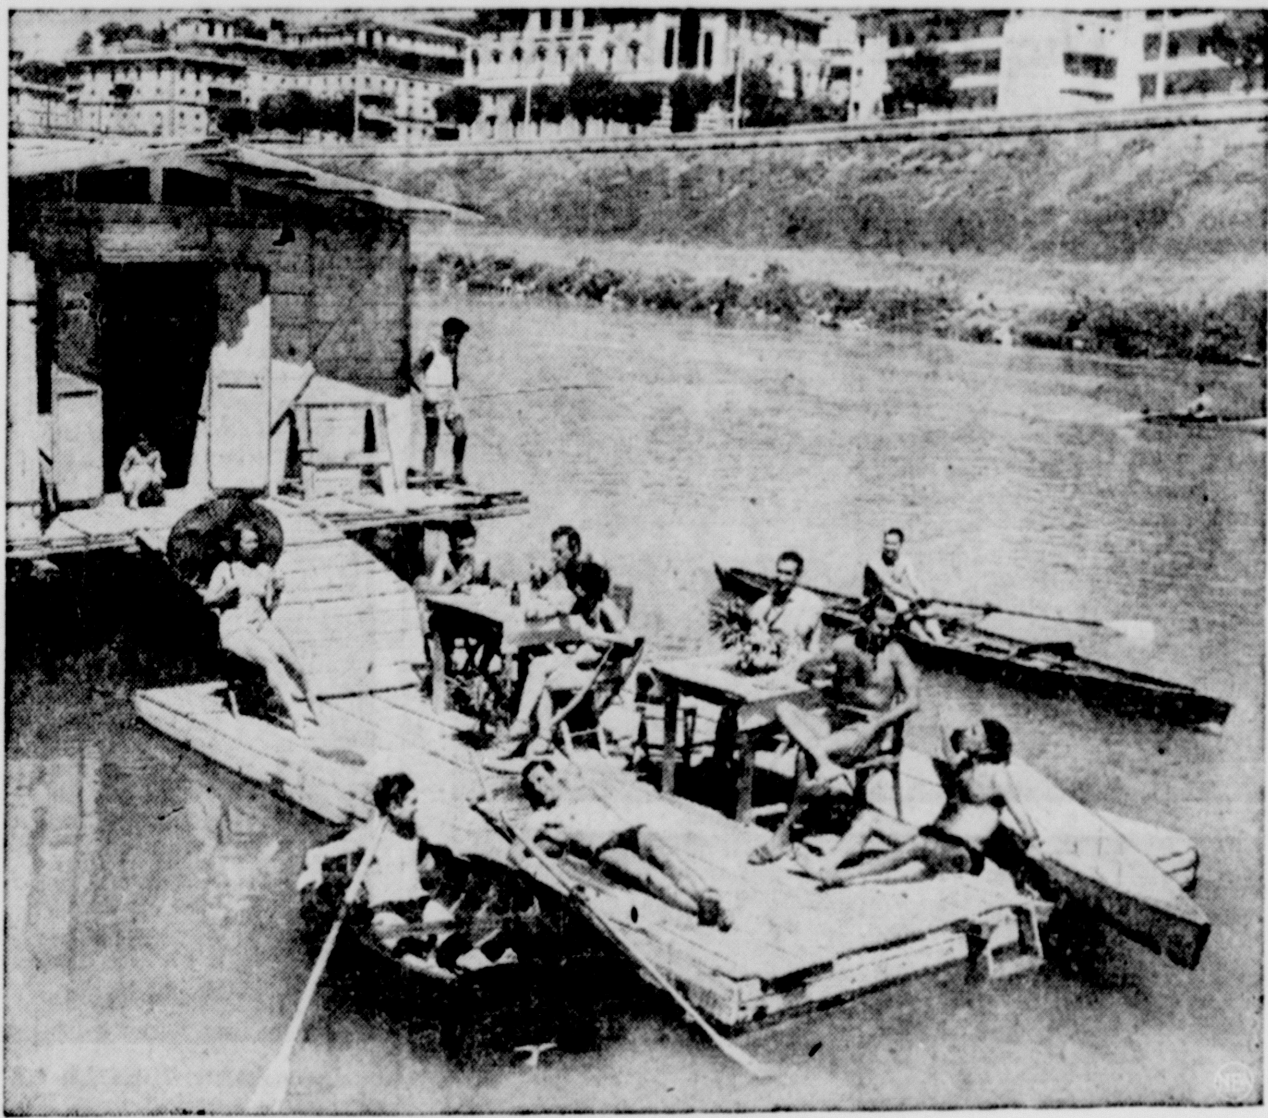

If the flash occurs at night and the pilot is temporarily blinded, he might find himself trying to fly instruments and seeing nothing but blurred gauges; in heavy turbulence that is not contemplated with any enthusiasm, he added.

SIAMESE COP HAS RIGHTS
Bangkok, Siam (AP)—The Siam police department told the government civil service board they thought the salary of one police sub-lieutenant should be reduced. The civil service board asked why.

The police department explained that the police officer had kidnapped and raped a school teacher in the town where he was chief of police. A salary reduction would tend to keep him from doing anything like that again, the department felt.

The civil service board, after a lengthy meeting, discharged the sub-lieutenant. But they said no further action would be taken against him "because he was a police officer at the time the kidnapping and rape were committed."

Fort On Pt. Huron Site Blocked British In 1686

Ann Arbor—Acting as a French barrier to British advances in the Northwest, a little stockade named Fort St. Joseph stood at the present site of Port Huron 262 years ago.

Erected in 1686, the fort helped defeat two British parties intent on raiding the French-dominated Indian fur trade in the Great Lakes region. Then in 1688, it was abandoned because its commandant, bored with the lonely outpost life, left for Fort Michilimackinac and friends, according to information in the Michigan Historical Collections at the University of Michigan.

The French at that time claimed the entire Great Lakes area as the property of King Louis XIV. They especially coveted the territory because of the lucrative fur trade carried on with the Indians through the trading headquarters at Michilimackinac.

The success of two British parties in trading with the Indians while the French were away from Michilimackinac prompted building of the fort. Since the British had come up the lakes from Albany, N. Y., the French were anxious to halt any further invaders before they could reach the Straits area and the fur trade. The French were especially irked because some of the Indians liked to trade with the Englishmen as they gave them more for their hard-earned furs than did the French, the records of the Michigan Historical Collections show.

Builder of the fort was Daniel Greysolon, Sieur Duluth, then commandant at Michilimackinac. It was the same Duluth who had added to New France an empire in the Northwest, explored routes from Lake Superior to the Mississippi and made French alliances with the biggest Indian tribes in that area.

It was shortly after Duluth finished the fort that the English once more tried to come up the lakes to trade. Then the little stockade hummed with activity as western Indians in their startling war paint rendezvoused there to assist the French against the interlopers.

Two parties of English traders were captured. Shortly afterwards, Duluth, at his own request, was relieved at St. Joseph in order to do more exploration.

He was replaced by Louis Armand and Baron de Lahontan. In his book "Nouveaux Voyages," published in 1703, Lahontan wrote that the banks of the strait below Lake Huron were covered with fruit trees and abounded in deer and other animals, Michigan

Adirondacks Iron Ore Field Makes Comeback

By Clayton R. Sutton
The Wall Street Journal
Mineville, N.Y.—A rich and growing iron ore diet is again flowing from the Adirondacks to feed some of the steel industry's hungry blast furnaces.

Drills and shovels are biting faster into open pit and underground mines here in northeastern New York State not far from the Canadian and Vermont borders. Mines all but forsaken for a quarter century are once again being worked with gusto.

Production for the Adirondack Mountains region this year will reach an estimated 2.5 million tons of high grade ore. That's about 300,000 tons more than last year and roughly five times as much as the region produced on an annual average prior to the late 1930's.

Back of this increasing activity in the Adirondacks is the iron and steel companies' realization that their Lake Superior iron reserves may not prove adequate in the future. That doesn't mean the giant Mesabi ranges and the upper reaches of Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan are losing their place as the nation's No. 1 iron ore source. It does mean the Adirondacks are growing as an auxiliary source.

For one thing, ownership of ore reserves in the great lake region, is not equally divided among the iron and steel companies. U. S. Steel Corp., for example, owns a predominant share. The balance is unequally divided among other steel and independent iron ore companies.

While New York State's iron ore mines were operating as long ago as 1800, they were practically forgotten by the steel industry for years after discovery of the Mesabi range with its easily mined, high-grade ores in 1890.

In the 10 years from 1918 to 1928, the Adirondacks produced only 0.6% of the iron mined in this country while the Lake Superior region was mining an average 84.5%. By 1946 that picture had changed, slightly, but significantly. That year the Adirondacks produced 3.1% of the total while Lake Superior output was 83.9%.

"In the years to come," says Republic Steel Corp.'s D. B. Gilles, who is president of the Lake Superior Iron Ore Association "the Adirondacks will constitute an even more important source of iron ore than today."

Here in the Port Henry district near Lake Champlain, where iron mining dates back to post-Revolutionary War days, Republic Steel is scooping out some two million tons of crude ore a year from three mines.

To the north at Lyon Mountain, Republic is working other properties purchased in 1943 from the Delaware and Hudson Co. Last year this area yielded 375,000 gross tons of finished ore, compared with 127,000 tons in 1939, when Republic had the property under lease, and 419,000 tons in wartime in 1943. Output this year will equal or exceed 1947.

Republic's expanded facilities in the Adirondacks have an estimated capacity for producing an annual 2,250,000 long tons of finished iron ore, averaging 68.5% iron. That's about a quarter of the ore needed by the company for its present steel-making capacity. Only a shortage of workers in the mines is keeping ore output below capacity.

The company has also begun clearing the overburden from an open pit mine at Lyon Mountain and sinking another underground shaft there. The below-ground shaft is expected to produce eventually some 25 million tons of high grade ores. Republic is doing some exploratory drilling for more iron in Franklin and St. Lawrence counties, northwest of here.

Well-known expert, of Indianapolis, and ex-U. S. Army Medical Corpsman, will personally demonstrate his method without charge at the Ludington Hotel, Escanaba, Tuesday, Aug. 24, from 3 p. m. to 6 p. m.

Mr. Howe says the Howe method contracts the openings in remarkably short time on the average case, regardless of the size or location of the rupture, and no matter how much you lift or strain, and puts you back to work the same day as efficient as before you were ruptured.

The Howe Rupture Shield has no leg strap; waterproof, sanitary, practically indestructible, and can be worn while bathing. Each shield is skillfully molded and fitted to the parts under heat, which gives a perfect fit and satisfaction.

Large and difficult ruptures following operations especially solicited. Do not overlook this opportunity if you want gratifying results. Mailing address P. O. Box 5233 E. Michigan St. Station, Indianapolis 1, Ind.

Meanwhile, Jones and Laughlin Steel Corp. has announced the expansion of its iron mining operations at Starlake in St. Lawrence County. It says this is likely to become one of its important sources of ore in the next 10 years. J. and L.'s Starlake operation, a wartime rejuvenation of an abandoned mine, is expected to produce some 800,000 tons of high grade ore this year, compared with 600,000 tons last year. Present production is better than 12 percent of the company's total iron ore requirements.

Nearby at Degrasse, the M. A. Hanna Co., big Cleveland iron mining operator, is continuing an operation started during the war. Its 1947 output of 172,000 tons of concentrated iron ore will be repeated this year.

At Republic Steel's Port Henry operation, a concentrating mill built during the recent war crushes the 30% to 35%-iron content rock, magnetically separates the iron from the waste, and turns out a granulated ore of about 68% iron.

This granulated ore is sintered—mixed with crushed anthracite which is ignited in a furnace and agglomerates the iron into bigger pieces the size of coke. This way it's easier to handle and feed into a blast furnace.

The process reduces the annual two million tons of crude ore from the Port Henry mines to about one million tons of finished ore for Republic's steel-making operations in Cleveland, Youngstown, and Warren, Ohio. At Lyon Mountain the same method is used to concentrate 25% iron rock into 68% iron ore.

Animals, Too, Act Whacky Under The Hot Summer Sun

The animals aren't themselves, that's all there is to it. What do you think of that Sacramento, Calif., cocker spaniel, Tiny, top left, who "kittenapped" the kitten on her back when two of her eight pups died? And how about Joe, that duck, top right, who spends all day in Parsons, Kan., running around with his pal Sammy, a cocker spaniel? Then there's the case of the mockingbird, left, who prefers staying inside the Blocker home in New Orleans, La. Walter Blocker, 9, who feeds "Chirp," lets him out every day, but the bird comes right back inside. And, as the last exhibit, consider the baby squirrel, right, who likes to hit the bottle in Schenectady, N. Y. The infant's mother was run down by a truck, but he is thriving on the bottle.

How To Feel Like 16 At 89; Keep Stompin'

Kansas City, Kans.—(NEA)—In this town there is a pioneer citizen who has discovered the secret of youth.

"All you have to do," he says, "is to put on your dancing shoes and get out among 'em."

He's Frank O. Taylor, a retired truck gardener whose full-time hobby and recreation is dancing. At 89 he spends a minimum of 16 hours a week on the dance floor, and for as long as anybody can remember he's been the dancing man in these parts.

As a result, he says, "I'm as healthy as a kid of 16." Today, he has a twinkle in his eye and a zip in his step and has never been to a doctor in his life.

Taylor gets out among 'em at least four nights a week. He's a permanent guest at most of the regular "Gay Nineties" shindigs and a perennial winner of old-fashioned dancing contests.

But he won't be classified as a yesterday's hooper. He studies the latest steps, learns them quickly. He thinks swing music "has a good solid beat," and says if we'd had jitterbugging in 1890 everybody would have loved it.

"That's the kind of dancing that puts you in shape," he says. "You have to have bells on your feet and oil in your joints and keep stompin' all night long to really get anywhere."

He finds two things wrong with modern dancing—musicians who play more intermissions than music, and the tendency of young men to dance only with their own girls.

He preferred the days when a fiddle, guitar and piano pounded out the rhythm from suppers till dawn and every young man made it a point to dance with every girl in the hall.

His advice to husbands is along the same line—"Take your wife out any time she asks, but do most of your dancing with somebody's else's wife." That's the way they did it in his day.

Taylor arrived in this city from a homesteading venture in the West during the Gay Nineties, but they weren't quite gay enough for him. So he built him a house that had a big parlor with a polished hardwood floor and began to invite residents out for square dances after the midnight curfew closed the halls in the city.

"We'd push back the furniture and roll back the rugs and have sets of squares just a-flyin' all night long," he remembers.

After the death of his wife in 1930, Frank stopped dancing for about a year. Then he got back into the swing more than ever. "I've been busy ever since," he says, "and I've never been happier than I am right today."

He works in a small garden in the mornings, then spends most of the late afternoon getting ready for that night's party. When most men his age are taking their last snooze in the sun before dinner, Frank's already on the phone lining up a dancing date with some slick chick of 65.

No Absolute Death, Heat Studies Show

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor
New York (P)—There probably is no such thing as absolute death, according to studies of heat published in the Scientific Journal Physics.

The possibility of absolute death has been a scientific concept of what must happen when all heat vanishes. This occurs at absolute zero, which is 499 below zero fahrenheit and 273 below centigrade.

At that point all motion was supposed to cease completely. As all substances were chilled closer and closer to absolute zero, even their internal motion, the movement of molecules to an fro and the movement of atoms in the molecules became slower and slower.

Helium studies recently made have upset this concept. They indicate that even after all heat is gone at absolute zero there still will be some motion.

Although motion is not of itself life, motion is part of anything that is alive.

The helium studies are described by Dr. Lazio Tisza, a physicist of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. They were made at Yale university in Moscow and in other laboratories.

Helium has been cooled to within four thousandths of one degree of absolute zero. Nothing else has yet gone that low. Even at this incredibly low temperature helium doesn't freeze.

The helium molecules slow down, but not enough to indicate that they will stop moving.

Scientists don't know for sure that the molecules won't die.

But Dr. Tisza, after applying the mathematics of quantum mechanics, which predict what to expect, writes:

"It turns out that molecular activity slows down with decreasing temperature, but it can never come to a complete standstill."

'Lady Frank Buck' Leaves Typing For Wild Animals

Genevieve Cuprys and python: By the foot, not by the pound

By NEA Service

New York (NEA)—Python-by-the-pound is no sale for Genevieve Cuprys, who knows a reptilian bargain when she sees it.

Miss Cuprys has traveled far and wide to find bargains for the zoo-supply company she represents. At 23, Genevieve claims that shopping for anything from anteaters to zebras is far more interesting than the secretarial job she left last January.

The python deal came up when she was shopping in Singapore. A wild animal merchant thought he could make a fat profit by feeding the snake a whole pig before the weighing-in. But this didn't even add an inch to its length, and Genevieve wouldn't go through with the sale.

She's the only woman wild animal collector in the business and has just returned from a "shopping spree" with a cargo of 35 pythons bought by the foot. Unpacking them at a New York pier, Genevieve acted as head man, packing the snakes' heads away in crates while her employer and two perspiring assistants struggled with the withering hind quarters.

"These babies are so strong," observed Henry Trefflich, her boss, "that they can circle a cow, crush its bones and stretch it out like a bologna until it fits into their mouths."

Unperturbed, Genevieve casually went about her business.

Adopted daughter of the late Arthur Foehl, widely known animal dealer, Genevieve went along on trips with her father to Africa and India. When Foehl died last January, Trefflich sent her off for Borneo armed with a round-trip ticket, $1000 cash, and a drawing account. It was her first try and she came through in fine style.

When she returned, she brought back baboons, gibbons, a Gibraltar ape, monkeys, rare birds and a Malayan sun bear.

Her prize catch, however, was Bali, a baby orangutan with the face and manners of a philosophic old man—the second one of its kind brought back to America in 10 years.

Her first expedition also had a double-tragedy. Genevieve had picked up two very rare Pangolin (scaly) anteaters, which her father had tried 27 years to find.

"For three days I picked ticks out from under their scales," she recalled. "Then one died from the terrible Singapore heat, although I kept pouring buckets of water on all the animals. During a storm at sea, the other one—they're powerful animals—broke four spikes in its box and got out. I slid around the wet deck and crawled over rubber cargo all night. It must have jumped overboard."

"Just like $5000 jumping overboard!" Trefflich observed glumly. "But she's terrific anyhow; has lots of guts. A real lady Frank Buck."

In a few weeks, she'll fly back to Singapore and drop in on Sumatra, Bangkok and Batavia, shopping for Java monkeys, more oranges, tapers, black panthers and a baby elephant or two.

The only animals that bother Genevieve are wolves—office or shipboard variety. In any case, she admits, "I could never go back to office work now."

Shield Gray Hair
From Burning Sun
BY ALICIA HART

Few sun-tanned beauties look better than the woman whose hair is white or gray.

Yet for her there are the problems which must be met of exposing skin to the sun without exposing white hair and keeping her complexion safe from the sun's ravages.

White or gray hair can be kept safe from the yellowing effects of the sun, if the lady who cherishes her plumage will wrap her head up in a scarf.

The problem of counteracting the sun's drying effects on the skin can be solved if a woman will cream her face before she goes out, again after she comes in.

If a woman wants to deepen the effects of a mild tan, she can do that successfully today by using cosmetics which make a mild skin tint look more spectacularly ruddy. Those cosmetics which accomplish this best are dark liquid make-ups which deepen skin color and leave a transparent film on the face.

The Saddle Shoe Set

By Teen Ager

Teen-agers are again in the limelight! This time three of them have been accorded honors for outstanding achievements.

Carl Myrsten, 1948 Esby high grad, won an honorable mention for his hand tool entry in the second annual Scholastic Industrial Arts Awards. His prize-winning project is on exhibition in the annual Fair which opens today at the Chicago Museum of Science and Industry. This Fair will continue through Sept. 22.

Carl competed with other junior and senior high school students from all sections of the nation, and the honor accorded to him indicates a high degree of excellence in workmanship, according to George H. Fern, national director of the Industrial Arts Award.

Double-dip honors to the winner of the senior division of the U. P. State Fair amateur show. Who else merits such congrats but the Witham twins, Mary and Nancy, whose singing of "Symphony" won for them top honors on Wednesday.

Besides minor prizes, the girls will also be given a trip by plane to Detroit for the Michigan State Fair, will appear with the Detroit Symphony orchestra and have several guest appearances in Detroit, including over radio station WJR.

No matter how you look at it the gang of 4-Hers is an ambitious and energetic group. But—did you know that five teen-age girls of this organization are turning out meals three times a day for 200 people per meal? Operating the 4-H tent at the fairgrounds are these "chief cooks and bottle washers"—Betty Helgen, Maysie Campbell, Lois Grandcham, Gloria Larson and Mary Dell Chartrand. Of course, others turn a helping hand now and then but these five girls bear the brunt of the work.

They get up at 5 a. m. just as the cocks are beginning to crow in the Fair poultry barn, and then work straight through until nine in the evening.

About 100 4-H members sleep in the aluminum dorms constructed at the fairgrounds. Maysie and Gloria are in charge of the girls' barracks.

We don't know how you feel about it, but we say "Hats off," to a group of young people who will someday be some of Michigan's finest citizens.

Rev Bryson will return Monday night from Milwaukee where she is a guest of Mrs. Louise Prill. Mary Erickson has returned from Cincinnati, Ohio, where she attended the ceremonies at which Donald Hermes of Escanaba was novitiated into a monastery.

Electric Patter
Irons Out Lines

Home-facial aid which gives the older woman's hands a rest is the electric patter or vibrator.

These newly styled mechanical "fingers" which massage the skin by means of a gentle vibrating action are designed to help rouse circulation; to relax tension and to iron out fatigue lines. More benefits claimed are that chin lines can be patted into firmer contours with the help of these devices.

As an inducement to give dry skin the lubricating massage it needs, one leading beautician packages a special emollient cream with an electric patter. This one has padded "fingers" which are a help in manipulating cream over the skin. The way to get the most benefit from the mechanical facial massage, says the beautician who sponsors this patter, is to thoroughly cleanse face first, then to smooth on a light film of the

Specialists Study World Mentally III

London (P)—Two, thousand specialists met here Wednesday to consider the state of the world's mental health. They could like to find some way to treat "sick" nations so as to "cure" the disease of war.

Psychologists, psychotherapists, psychiatrists and representatives of all professions concerned with the study and betterment of human relations convened for an 11-day international congress on mental health. There are to be three separate, but related, conferences.

"We shall try to get away from individual cases and think instead of groups and communities and nations who are sick," said the congress president, Dr. J. R. Rees of London. "We shall have something to say about children, so that they are not like us and go to war every 25 years."

"The fact that there always have been wars doesn't mean there always will be," said Dr. Nina Ridner of New York, executive officer of the international committee for mental hygiene. "We are opposed to that old chestnut that you can't change human nature. We think you can change human nature."

The way to begin, she suggested, is by showing mothers and teachers how to handle children properly. She said policy makers in foreign relations and government perhaps should be advised by psychologists.

"Sometimes," Dr. Ridner added, "they will make policies which fail to take account of the cultural characteristics of various nations."

Dr. Frank Freeman-Smith of New York commented that appeasement of a potential aggressor is not a cure because:

"Appasement to an adolescent who has grown beyond his proportions is not going to make a good world citizen."

Specialists from at least 54 nations are represented here. Only Russia among the major powers failed to send a delegation. The three inter-related conferences, involving 21 specialized groups, are these:

1. The international conference on child psychiatry meets mornings from Wednesday through Saturday. Its theme is "Aggression."

2. The international conference on medical psychotherapy meets afternoons from Wednesday through Saturday. Its theme is "Guilt."

3. The international conference on mental hygiene meets all next week. Its theme is "Mental Health and World Citizenship."

The mental hygiene conference will work from reports prepared over the last year by 340 discussion groups in 24 committees and by an overall international prepar

IVORY WALGREEN AGENCY

TYPICAL OIL MEN are George Furness, and Milton Murner, who are part of crew that works non-stop around the clock to dig a well. New wells are going up on average of one a day.

BALES of chicken feathers, tons of wheat and wood pulp have been showered on the oil flowing wild from Atlantic No. 3 well in efforts to stop it. But "Old Faithful" still flows on.

OPERATOR watches a drill going down. Mud is used as "grease" to ease plunge of drill.

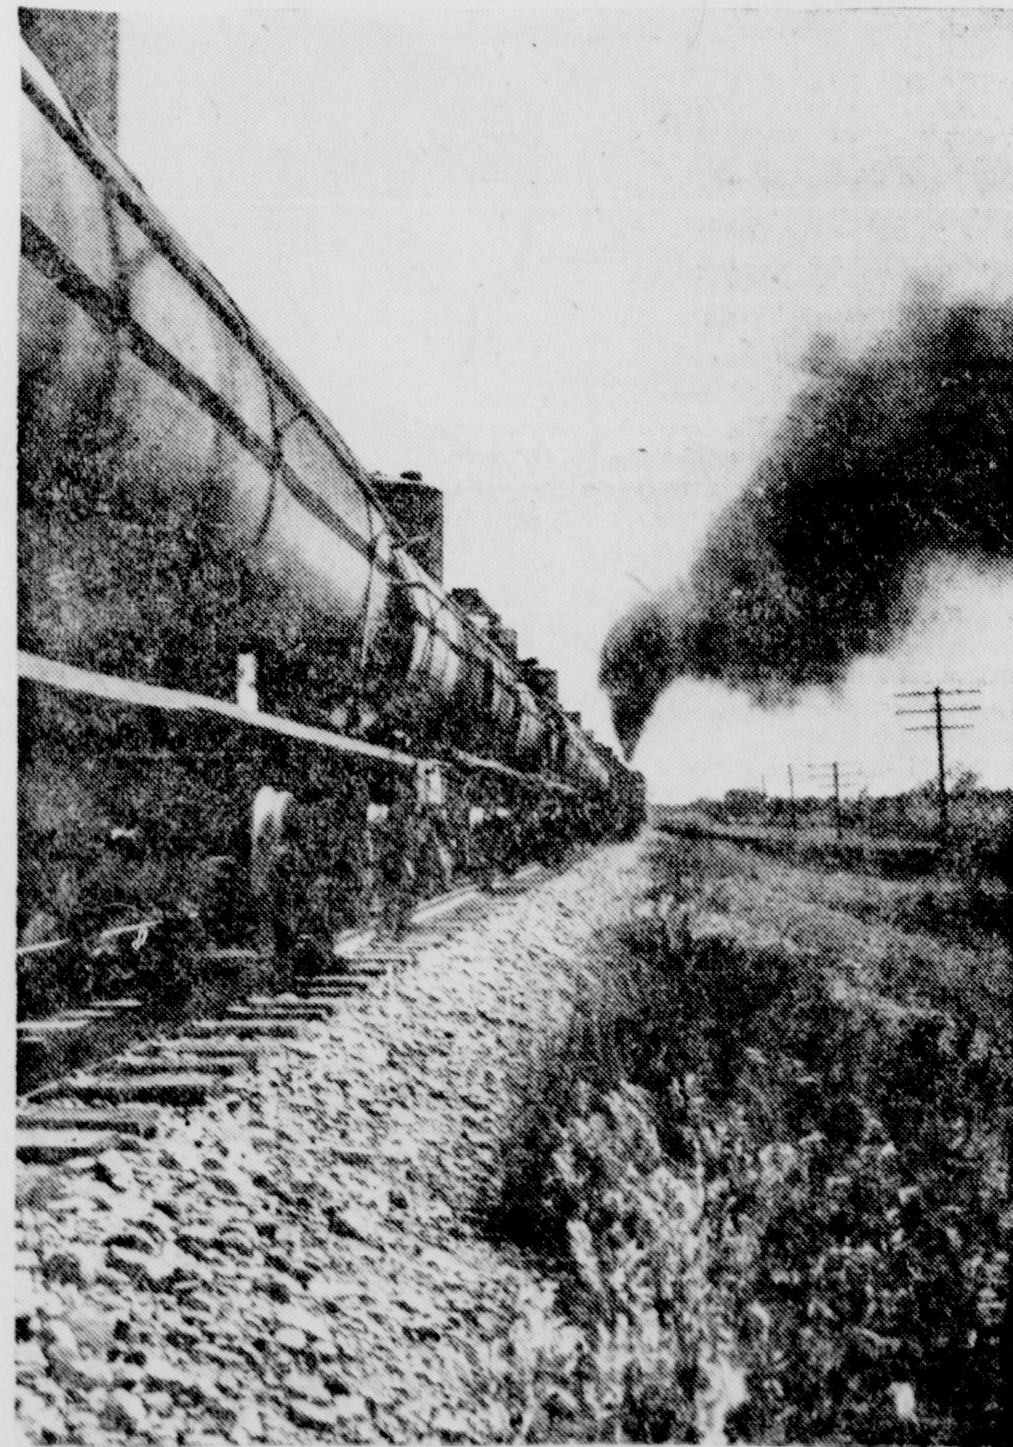

DISCOVERING NEW OIL

WHEN drillers spudded in the first well of Canada's newest and largest oil field at Leduc, Alberta, they said: "It looks good." That was two years ago. Today, the field is bubbling up to expectations. Its reserves are estimated from 100,000,000 to 200,000,000 barrels. At present there are 100 going wells in the field, and 300 more are planned. New holes are being drilled daily. The drillers and riggers and tool men swarming over the Leduc have made it the start of the biggest oil exploration program in Canada's history. The 80-square-mile field is so prolific in oil that one well, Atlantic No. 3, burst open this spring and has been flowing wild ever since, gushing up 14,000 barrels a day. The new Leduc field is pictured here.

NEW WELL: Once the drilling has stopped the well is blown in. A volcanic-like flame shoots high in the air clearing out mud, gas, water from the earth's depths. The "clean out" goes on few hours, then the pumping operations begin.

ESCAPING OIL from Atlantic No. 3 well covers 10 acres.

BREAK GROUND FOR BUILDINGS

New Clinic And New Motel To Be Built

Excavating began this week for two imposing additions to business district.

Dr. Merle Wehner has broken ground for a two-office building and Finch Brothers, Bob and Jack, have broken ground for a motel on lots adjacent to the Finch residence and dentist office.

The Wehner building, to be located on lots at 131 River street, next door to the Mary Schneider residence, will be 34 by 90 in size, will be one story and of brick and glass construction. The building will be of special clinic type, complete with space for x-ray, and physiotherapy and with rooms for minor surgery.

Paul Wehner, father of Dr. Wehner, will supervise construction.

The building permit for the Finch motel, which was granted several months ago, calls for an attractive motel of fiveproof construction embodying the very latest type of tourist hotel. The design has been called "The Big Dipper" as the structure conforms to a line taking that shape. Each subdivision of the motel will be a cozy 3-room apartment in itself, according to the original plan.

Pleads Guilty To Hit And Run Charge

William Stocker, Indian Lake, was assessed $15 fine and costs after he appeared before Judge W. G. Stephens Thursday morning and pleaded guilty to a charge of leaving a scene of an accident without reporting to the police.

The accident happened Sunday evening on Old U. S. 2 just as he was leaving Nick's Bar. The complainant was Robert Wilson, of Peru, Ind.

Stocker explained that he was not aware that the two cars had come in contact with each other being under the impression that a pebble had hit his fender.

The fine and costs were paid.

Radio Building To Replace One Recently Burned

Workmen began Thursday morning the building of an 8x10 structure in Lakeside Park to replace the one housing the state police radio equipment recently destroyed by fire.

The new building will be of cement block construction. New equipment will also be installed.

The old building was set afire by lightning and was completely destroyed. In the meantime the police post is using emergency equipment sent up from state headquarters.

THE PEPPERMINT TEST
Steam boilers can be tested by use of oil of peppermint. A leak is indicated by the escape of the mint's pungent odor, while a boiler which can confine the smell of the oil is said to be capable of withstanding any ordinary degree of pressure.

MUCH STREET WORK COMPLETE

Blacktop Applied To 11 City Clocks

Manistique's street improvement program for the current year, with the exception of two blocks still unpaved because of lack of black top, is almost completed. Orson Livermore, street commissioner announces.

Ten blocks of streets have been relevelled and paved, several blocks of street extension made.

Particularly noteworthy is the paving job. Many of the streets subjected to this improvement had become rough and rutted. Considerable work had to be done in stabilizing and leveling them before the gravel and tar could be applied. They are now smooth and so well constructed that they will remain in good shape for many years to come. Not only have they insured smooth going for the motorist, however, they have also enhanced the appearance of their surroundings as well.

The streets receiving blacktop are one block each on Michigan, South Second, West Elk, South Fourth, North Fourth and two blocks on Garden, Schoolcraft and Bear streets. The two later streets are in the process of improvement.

Unusual high quality of both tar and gravel accounts for a better than usual job.

Among the semi-improved street extensions are one-half block at Washington street, Maple street and a connecting link between the extremity of Maple street and North Cedar street. In a number of places deep ruts in streets have been leveled and streets in serious state of repair made passable.

Beautiful Bible Stories Become Theme Of Play

Beautiful, ageless stories from Holy Writ, enacted with effective simplicity, and enhanced by costume and lovely music, provided impressive and edifying entertainment for the people who attended Thursday evening's presentation at the high school auditorium of "The Light Eternal," by local talent.

Unfortunately, the attendance was pitifully small, but the few who were there were enthusiastic and anxious to have this evening's attendance increased many fold. It's a good show.

The play was the portrayal of a bedtime story with Judge W. G. Stephens in the role of story teller and Bruce Henry and Patricia Schneider in the roles of grandchildren. As the grandfather recounted incidents from the Bible, the scenes were enacted on the stage.

The story of Joseph and his brethren was the first story told with Carl Barnes in the role of Joseph and Herbert Peterson as Pharaoh. Joseph's unkind treatment by his brothers, his interpretation of Pharaoh's dreams and his forgiveness of his brothers, were effectively portrayed.

The next story depicted was that of Moses the lawgiver. The part of Moses was most impressively delineated by the Rev. John Sauran.

The third and last story told was that of the Nativity. The first scene depicted Mary, acted by Jean Hambeau, receiving the Annunciation. The next scene showed the visitation of the Angels to the shepherds telling them of the Glad Tidings. The scene of the Nativity is then portrayed with the shepherds coming to kneel in adoration later followed by the three wise men bearing gifts.

And as effective as the acting was the music—sometimes by chorus, sometimes piano music played by Miss Nadine Westin and on one occasion the lovely voice of Mrs. Rose Patrick singing Roswells' "Ave Maria." Mrs. Patrick's solo and Miss Westin's "Moonlight Sonata" were alone well worth the price of admission. Tonight's performance starts at 8:15 o'clock.

Brechen Beats Old Daytime Jinx, Heads For 20-Game Title

By Joe Reichler
Associated Press Sports Writer
Now that Harry (The Cat) Brechen has demonstrated he can puzzle the hitters during the daytime as well as at night, the St. Louis Cardinals' ace hurler appears a cinch to realize his ambition to become a 20-game winner.

For years the slender 33-year-old southpaw from Ada, Okla., has been known as a whiz at night, but no more than a good pitcher under the sun.

Now the daytime jinx seems to be conquered. Brechen pitched one of his best games of the year yesterday, shutting out the Cincinnati Reds on four scattered hits, 4-0.

It was his fourth victory against two losses in day games and his 15th triumph of the year. He has won 11 and lost two at night. The triumph pushed the third place Cardinals within two games of the leading Boston Braves.

Brechen struck out seven to wrest the strikeout leadership from Cincinnati's Ewell Blackwell, 107 to 105.

The Cards made only six hits against Kenny Raffensberger, but put together four in the sixth to score three runs. The other was tallied in the fourth on Terry Moore's home run.

Tough In Clutch
Rip Sewell hurled his fifth victory of the season over the Chicago Cubs as the fourth place Pittsburgh Pirates prevailed, 2-1. It was Sewell's eighth of the year.

The 40-year-old righthander was touched for eight hits, but was tough in the clutch, stranding 11 runners.

The Pirates tallied in the first when Andy Pafko dropped catcher Bob Scheffing's throw on a steal and pushed over the winning run in the sixth when Dixie Walker singled, reached second on Emil Verban's error, and scored on Danny Murtagh's single. The victory shoved the Pirates only four and one half games behind the idle Braves.

The Philadelphia Athletics regained second place in the American league race, turning back the Boston Red Sox, 10-3, in Boston. Connie Mack's fighting A's, knocked out of the runner-up spot by the Red Sox yesterday, pounded five Boston pitchers for 14 hits. They now trail the pace-setting Cleveland Indians by two and a half games.

Tied 2-2 going into the seventh, the A's drove Joe Dobson, to the showers with a four-run rally to give Dick Fowler his 12th victory against four defeats. Fowler retired in favor of Lou Brissie in the eighth, complaining of fatigue.

Allie Reynolds held the Washington Senators to five hits in pitching the fourth place New York Yankees to an easy 8-1 victory. Reynolds helped his own cause with a two-run single during a six-run fourth inning against Early Wynn.

A scheduled game between the Braves and Giants at New York has been postponed by rain. All remaining teams were idle.

All-Stars Facing Cardinals Tonight At Soldier Field

Chicago, Aug. 20 (AP)—The annual lake-front football pageant will be on display in Soldier Field tonight when the College All-Stars meet the champion Chicago Cardinals in the 15th annual game of the series.

A crowd of 100,000 or more is expected to watch the Collegians attempt to make it three victories in a row over the professional champions. Last year the Stars defeated the Chicago Bears, 16 to 0, while in 1946 they blanked the Los Angeles Rams by the same score.

The National football league champions, however, hold the edge in the series with seven victories, five defeats and two ties. Tonight marks the first appearance of Coach Jimmy Conzelman's Chicago Cardinals in the pre-season football spectacle.

Notre Dame's Frank Leahy, coach of the All-Star squad for the second consecutive year, will aim a twin offensive at the Cardinals in the form of a T-formation unit led by Notre Dame's Johnny Lujack and a single wing combination spearheaded by Charlie Conerly, Mississippi's great passer. On the single wing side also will be such expert passers as Bob Chapuis, Michigan; Herman Wedemeier, St. Mary's, and Howard Yerges, also of Michigan.

The college squad of 71 players numbers 14 men from last season's undefeated Notre Dame squad. Michigan placed nine men.

College injury lists are long though. It included Capt. Bump Elliott of Michigan, Pete Ashbaugh and Bob Livingstone of Notre Dame. From the Cardinal camp at Waukesha, Wis., came word that Bill Campbell, Pat Harder, Bill Blackburn and Charley Trippi were ailing.

The Collegians are expected to fill the air with passes. Included among the squad's talented receivers are Bob Mann and Len Ford of Michigan; Bill Swiacki, Columbia; Tom Fears, UCLA, and Paul Cleary, of Southern California.

The Cardinals have nowhere the depth that Leahy has, but they'll have splendid passing as long as Mal Kutner and Bill Dewell are around to catch Paul Christman's passes, and good running if Trippi and Elmer Angsman are sound of wind and limb.

Tigers Play Final Game Under Lights

Detroit, Aug. 20 (AP)—Young Art Houtteman, whose two wins and 13 losses are not a fair record of his talents, was named to pitch tonight's game against the St. Louis Browns. The clash is the final game of the season under the lights at Briggs Stadium.

Both teams are in the second division as the Browns moved into Detroit to open a three game series. Ned Garver, with a record of 5-8, was slated to oppose Houtteman.

Some 35,000 fans are expected to see the Tigers' 14th and final night game at home this season.

Former Tiger outfielder Harry Heilmann, one of the most popular men in baseball, will be honored with a "day" at Briggs Stadium Sept. 11 when the Chicago White Sox play the Bengals.

The hard hitting Heilmann led the American League in batting in 1921, 1923, 1925 and 1927 when he topped such baseball greats as Ty Cobb, Tris Speaker and Babe Ruth.

Par-Blasters Tee Off In Denver Open; Ex-Dentist In Lead

Denver, Aug. 20 (AP)—A slender, ex-dentist from Memphis, Tenn., Dr. Cary Middlecoff, held a one-stroke lead today as the nation's leading par-busters teed off in the second round of the $12,500 Denver Open golf tournament.

Middlecoff's drives were long and his iron shots deadly yesterday as he covered the first 18 holes of the 72-hole grind in 65, seven under par and one stroke off the competitive record for the Welshire Municipal course.

Despite his low score, Middlecoff's putting was weak. Except for that, he might have tied or beaten the record set by Jimmy Clark of Englewood, Calif., in the National Public Links tournament in 1946.

But the freckled young man, who quit pulling teeth because he figured there was more money in golf, was well on the way to proving his point as he took a temporary grip on the $2,150 first place prize. His $10,981 earnings so far this year make him the ninth leading cash winner of the 1948 tournament circuit.

Just one stroke behind Middlecoff at the end of the first round were Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., and John Bulla of Phoenix, Ariz.

Lloyd Mangrum of Chicago, the number one money maker of the year, was tied for 13th with a 70 and Jimmy Demaret of Ojai, Calif., the fourth cash winner, was in a seventh-place deadlock at 68.

Ed Furgol of Pontiac, Mich., put together rounds of 36 and 33 for a 69 card.

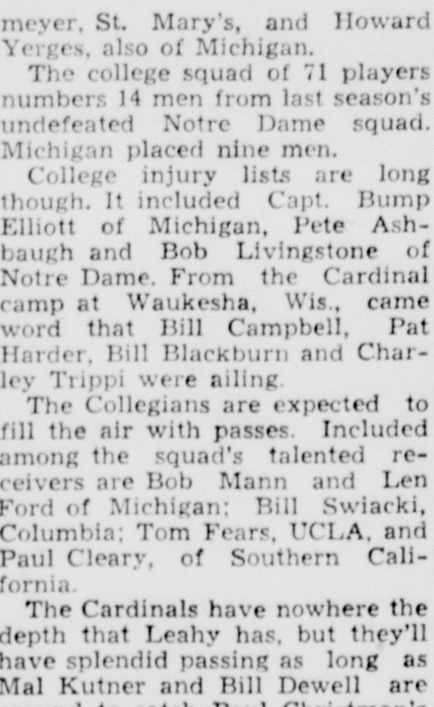

Former Grid Coach At Manistique Gets Post At Augustana

Sioux Falls, S. D., Aug. 19 (AP)—Appointment of H. Jerome (Jerry) Thompson of Cameron, Wis., as head football coach at Augustana College here was announced today.

Thompson will also serve as director of physical education, Augustana President L. M. Stavig said.

Thompson is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin, where he played varsity football and baseball in 1944 and 1945. Previously, he attended St. Olaf College at Northfield, Minn., where he was named an honor athlete in 1944.

After graduation, Thompson coached at Manistique, Mich., high school. He became head football coach at Upsala College, East Orange, N. J., in 1947.

Sports Roundup

By Joe Reichler

(For Hugh Fullerton, Jr.)

New York, Aug. 20 (AP)—Babe Ruth was talking about baseball, something which wasn't very hard to get him to do. The time was last March, less than six months before he died. The place was Tampa, Fla., one of his stops in his tour of the spring training camps.

"My best years were between 1921 and 1923," he said. "The greatest ball club I was with was the Yankees of 1927."

"The finest man I ever met in baseball was Miller Huggins. My chief regret is that the big fellows like Bob Meusel and myself were too busy having fun to pay much attention to Hugg's orders. We never listened to him crabbing at us when he was trying to keep the whole wild gang in line."

"We just treated him like a little and younger brother, and we roughed and mauled him around. Hug was fine and clean and a great leader. If we hadn't been so busy doing stunts we might have won a couple of more pennants."

"The pitcher who gave me the most trouble during my career was Earl Whitehill of the Tigers and later of the Senators. Sure, I knicked him for a long one every so often. But most of the time I'd end up walking back to the bench wondering who dragged me. Some say Hub Pruett was toughest for me. He was tough, but he didn't last long. I think one year he struck me out 13 out of 21 times I faced him."

Home Run Secret

"You want to know why I hit a lot of homers? Well, what I did first was to get the proper stance. I'd shift my feet so I'd be well balanced. That was the most important thing. When I saw the pitch I liked, I'd take a swing. The very second that I felt the bat hitting onto the ball, I would give my wrists an extra twist, and give the ball the old golf follow through—and that was that."

"I don't think anybody around today will break my home run record. That young Ralph Kiner of the Pirates might have had a chance if he batted left-handed. I don't think any righthanded batter ever will hit more than 60 homers. There simply are too many righthanded pitchers around and not enough southpaws."

The Greatest, Cobb

"The greatest ball player that ever lived was Ty Cobb, Ruth said. "Most guys are dangerous only when at bat. Cobb was dynamite at the plate. And when he got on base he was plenty worse. Nobody ever could figure out what he was going to do, except to be certain that sooner or later he would explode the other guys all over the place. Cobb could think of more ways to give a pitcher the jeebies than 25 other players put together."

No Extra Pants

How about those strikeouts in a pinch?

"I can tell you about that, too, because I felt that way often enough. When I swung and missed the third one, with lots of customers looking on, I felt like

Milwaukee Trails By 11½ Games in Association Race

By The Associated Press

The pennant-bound Indianapolis Indians are still bowling over the other American Association teams as they ride the crest of a current 12 game victory streak—and they are 11½ games ahead of runnerup Milwaukee.

The Indians notched triumph No. 12 last night by coming from behind with a 4-run ninth inning rally to defeat Kansas City 7 to 5. Milwaukee kept pace with the league-leaders by downing Louisville 13 to 2.

In other Association games, Minneapolis edged out Toledo 5 to 4, and St. Paul defeated Columbus 6 to 1.

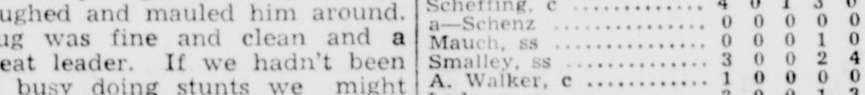

Bob Rhawn, Minneapolis third baseman, singled to score Dick Culler from second with the tie breaking run in the eighth to account for the Millers' 5 to 4 decision. Don Wheeler hit a homer for the winners.

Musick Wins Feature Auto Race At U. P. Fair

Blazing Ben Musick of Dallas, Texas won the feature event in the IMCA automobile races at the Upper Peninsula State Fair Thursday afternoon before a crowd of about 8,000 fans who just about filled the grandstand and who lined the half mile oval track on the inside and outside rails.

Musick also established a new half mile track record for the Escanaba oval, spinning the track in 26.10 seconds in his qualifying trial. Billy Snyder, of St. Paul, was the second fastest in the qualifying spin, 26.62 seconds and George Swangler of Grand Forks, N. D. was third, 28 seconds flat.

The auto races proved thrilling entertainment for the crowd, the largest afternoon crowd in years at the U. P. State Fair.

The first race following the time trials was for the six fastest cars in the field and Musick, riding Jimmie Wilburn's powerful Offenhauser with a heavy foot, won the five lap event in 2:25, with Billy Snyder second and Swangler third.

The second race was for the next six cars and Johnny Harper of Chicago won the five lap event in 2:29.50, with Bill Huff of St. Paul second and Wynn Hirner of Fargo, N. D., third.

Snyder Beats Musick

The third race, also a five lap affair, was for cars that had not won money in previous races of the afternoon. Claire Cotter of Austin, Minnesota, topped this event, with Roy Yauger, second and Johnny Alla third. All three of the prize winners in this event are from Austin, Minn. The time was 2:40.31.

The two speedy Offenhauser motors, Snyder's Black Cat Special and Musick's snappy job, were paired in a special race that proved to be the most thrilling of the afternoon. In this race Snyder got the inside rail and Musick was forced on the outside. It was a three lap sprint and Snyder, riding masterfully on the curves, nosed out Musick's by a quarter length in a nip and tuck finish.

With Snyder and Musick out of the competition, Johnny Harper, who started in last place, won the Australian pursuit event. In this contest the slowest cars, based on time trials, were started first. When a car was passed, it was disqualified from the race. Yauger was second in this event, Hoff third.

The national championship feature race paid off six places with Musick first, Snyder second, Swangler third, Harper, fourth, Yauger fifth and Hoff sixth.

Eleven cars and drivers competed in the auto races here and Bill Brown of Miami, Florida did an excellent job of announcing the events. Frank Winkley of Minneapolis served as starter.

Shotauns Banging At Vandalia; Grand American Launched

By FRITZ HOWELL

Vandalia, O., Aug. 20 (AP)—The folk in this peaceful Miami Valley village stuffed cotton in their ears today.

They did it to muffle the noise as hundreds of 12-gauge shotguns blazed the opening salvo of the 49th annual Grand American trapshoot—a barrage which will run through Aug. 28.

Today's events in what promises to be the biggest, noisiest, "roaring grand" of them all were just preliminary affairs to permit the marksmen from all parts of the Western Hemisphere to whet their shooting eye.

On the program today and tomorrow are 100-target races at 16 yards. Today also offered 50 handicap targets and 25 pairs of doubles—that tricky event in which two clays are tossed at the same time.

Tomorrow's secondary feature is a 100-target handicap, in which the dead-eye Dicks and Doras are penalized distance from the trap according to their proved proficiency.

Indications were that some 1500 might vie for the big event, the grand American handicap, Friday Aug. 27. That 100-target race has a guaranteed payoff of $10,000, but it reached $21,203 a year ago, with winner H. H. Crossen of Gardner, Mont., getting a bucket-full of it.

Iron River Plans Old Timers Golf Tourney Saturday

The Iron River Country club is making preparations to accommodate some 70 to 80 entrants in the Older Men's Golf Tournament which will open here Saturday morning and run throughout the day.

The tourney, which starts at 9 a. m. Saturday, is open to any golfer in the Upper Peninsula who is over 50 years of age. Players will be allowed to pick their own foursomes but it is requested that not more than two men from the same city play together.

The first nine holes will serve as a qualifying round, after which the players will be divided into seven flights, leaving the four-somes as they were. Prizes will be awarded for the lowest score and runner up in each flight as well as a number of other awards.

In addition to prizes being awarded by the Country club, many prizes have been contributed by wholesalers and jobbers, it was announced today by Ray Mahon and Bob Grailing, co-chairmen of the tournament.

A lunch will be served contestants at the club house at 1 o'clock. Prizes will be awarded at a dinner at the club house at 6:30, winding up the tourney activities.

Special committees have been appointed by the Country club to welcome the guests, many of whom will arrive Friday, and see that they have an enjoyable stay in Iron River.
